

YOUR DREAM MIGRATION.

Move Forward with Confidence.

Migrations are inevitable. Whether your business has outgrown its current infrastructure, your database or application tier needs an upgrade, or you are adopting an IaaS/PaaS operating model to reduce costs, at some point you will need to upgrade or migrate your database.

For operations management and executives, even the word migration can induce a sense of fear and panic. Statements like, “The last migration was a complete disaster! It took weeks to get the system running right and we nearly lost our customer’s confidence in our system altogether.”, or, “We switched over to the new system and it crashed. We needed to failback and haven’t been able to move forward since.” These are not factious accounts, they are stories that we have heard time and time again. Perhaps it was your story. Don’t worry, the names have been changed to protect the innocent.

You’ll be happy to know that it does not have to be that way. It’s time to move forward with confidence.

At Nugravity, migrations and upgrades are our specialty. Our team of experienced professionals have spent the last two decades focusing on delivering system migrations successfully – the first time. From comprehensive planning and risk management to thoroughly educating your resources on the new tech stack, our experts can help turn your headache into happiness.

Nugravity can make this dream a reality.
